Hegleman and Cavanagh Keep Up the Grind and Lead by About Ten Miles The Feeneys and the Heers Improve Their Positions -Score of the Leaders.

The "pace that kills" was emphatically demonstrated yesterday in the six-day go-asyou-please race in progress at Madison Square Garden. It was the second day of the long grind, and the effect of forty-eight hours' exhausting physical exertion was plainly to be seen on the physique of every man who trotted around the little track. The runners had a bedraggled mien, but they were sticking to their work with surprising tenacity. ing to their work with surprising tenacity.

The "Horrible Swede" looked still more terrible, while the "old uns" had anything but a pleasant appearance. Hughes, Noremac, Cartwright, Day, Feeney and Golden have grown wan and thin so as to be nearly un-recognizable. They are old and tried vet-recognizable. They are old and tried vetrecognizable. They are old and tried vetrans at the sport of long-distance work, and are liable to stick it out to the end or to fall gasping on the track at any moment.

Because they are the leaders, Hegleman and Cananagh are the most interesting pair.

Next in importance come the Indian, Davis, and the Irish "Canuck" Carroll. It was expected that the real tussle would be between these two teams, and the fact that the latter team is only in fifth place robs the competition of its alluring feature. Hegleman and Caranagh completed the two days' grind at tition of its alluring feature. Hegieman and Cavanagh completed the two days' grind at 12:23 o'clock this morning and were leading the equad by a comfortable margin. The Cuban team, Guerrero and Shelton, were in second place. The crowd last night was an implace. The crowd last high was a provement on the previous night and about a 500 persons were present. Only a couple of hundred persons kept the weary vigil during the day. An extra attraction has been arranged for to-night, in the shape of short races by prominent professionals.

Quite some excitement was caused at 11 o'clock by Edward Griffen of the Hudson county team fainting outside of his tent. He revived in a short time. Farly yesterday morning Joe Hurst limped on the track, and his appearance drove a ceach through a wild rumor that the Eng-lishman had fainted and was on the verge of lishman had fainted and was on the verge of absolute collapse. After the Saxon "ped" had loosened up a while he did not look so badly and got rid of a few laps, though evidently distressed. Up to a late hour lat night there were twenty-five teams of the forty-two that started. Properly reckoned fourteen gave up the first day. The first pair to show the white feather yesterday were Graham and Jones, when they had been credited with 118 miles and 3 laps.

The next pair to fall by the wayside was Desmond and Jones, with a score of 14) miles and Jones, when they had been credited with 118 miles and 3 laps. The next pair to fall by the wayside was Desmond and Jones, with a score of 14 miles and 2 laps. McCarthy and Fallon were the sand 2 laps. McCarthy and Fallon were the next to go to sleep, after having sped 149 miles. Eaton and Nowaa managed to cover 141 miles before they were forced to retire. Eaton who is an old cyclist, was taken from the track exhausted. It was said that he raved for grouple of hours in his tent and only regained consciousness after strong restoratives had been administered. His collapse caused considerable discussion as to whether pedestrianism was a greater test of endurance than bicycle riding. Eaton rode a great many races, but suffered more from what work he performed in the Garden race than all his wheeling put tog-ther.

The "Indian team," Davis and Carroll, it seems, came into the race rather sparsely provided with the necessaries of life. When they temporarily withdrew from the contest on Monday it was plain that the management had lost a trump cad an investigation revealed the fact that the 'Indian' combination was clean busted. Yesterday afternoon the management came forward with funds to see the team through to the end of the race. The Feeneys, father and son, kept up a steady gait which improved their position from twenty-second place to ninth at the thirtieth hour, and then the team least regarded immediately became a factor in the contest. The Feeneys calmed two positions more and remained in seventh position until late last night. A case somewhat similar to that of the Feeneys is that of the Heer brothers of Rockaway.

At the conclusion of the sixth hour the inight. A case somewhat similar to that of the Freneys is that of the Heer brothers of Rockaway.

At the conclusion of the sixth hour the Heers occupied fourteenth place and had not moved a peg higher in the twelfth hour Before the next six hours had flitted by they were in twelfth place. Finishing the first day they were ininth and at 7:23 o clock last night the Rockaway sand pipers were in eighth place and going weil.

One of the most touchingly pathetic features of the grind is the little bunch of women who are tending to the wants of half a dozen of the runners. Mrs. Heers, mother of the Heers boys, does her utmost for her sons, while Mrs. Hughes is ever on the alert for Kid Willie and old John the "lepper." Mrs. Cartwright, Mrs. Fahey, Mrs. Cavanagh and Mrs. English do their best toward helping their husbands. No one of these women has had a wink of sleep since the race started. Aller and Jolley, the Portland team, were out of the race for twelve hours, but were out of the race for twelve hours, but were labeled to eather again. It was young Jolley.

Allen and Jolley, the Portland team, were out of the race for twelve hours, but were allowed to start again. It was young Jolley who did the quitting, but on a little persuasion he donned his toggery again.

All the day yesterday the men pegged away at their work with the German-Irish team-Hegleman and Cavanagh-in the lend. They never for an instant relinquished their hold on first place. To the surprise of those who came to the Garden early in the evening old Pete Golden and Tracy had worked themselves into third place. Fahey and Matkus were a close fourth, only a mile behind.

who came to the Garden early in the evening old Pete Golden and Tracy had worked themselves into third place. Fahey and Matkus were a close fourth, only a mile behind.

Another surprise for the critics was the way "Lepper" Hughes and his son Willie were holding on. They were far behind being tail-enders in the second division, but both father and son seemed to have gathered their "second wind" and were moving better than on Monday evening. For a while the Australian August T. Horst, woke up and trotted a lap—the first he moved faster than a walk since early on Monday. He says he is sure to work out his lameness and may get moving in his natural method before the race is ended. Despite some discouraging telegrams from home Gilbert Barnes, the rearguard of the Grand Army team, is standing nobly to his guns. With his head thrown to one side he hobbled around the track without a halt.

The ex-man of war has a happy mate in Samny Day. Sammy is quite a character, and when not engaged in "ididing" "lepper" Hughes he is saying something to the spectators. Oh, this is a cinch," he said once, and the next lap around a pretty girl in a pink waist, who sat in one of the boxes, caught his eye. He slid close to the box and, addressing the fair one, exclaimed: "Say, have you got a bed in your pocket?"

Alter forty-one hours racing yesterday evening Hegleman and Cavanagh were in front, their figures being 237 miles. Shelton and Guerrero were in second place with 248 miles and lap, Golden and Tracy had third position with 237 miles and Tracy had third position of the leaders and Hegleman and Cavanagh had received in the position of the leaders and Hegleman and Cavanagh had received they and settle of the distribution of the leaders and Hegleman and Cavanagh had received they and settle of the day and Herst, the Australian, creeted lots of the day and Hors yesterday afternoon in the A. A. U. amateur billiard tournament and Dr. Mial was the billiard tournament and Dr. Mial was the winner by a score of 400 to 267, making his third victory. Dr. Mial counted very rapidly toward the close of the game and played a pretty good game throughout. From his thirty-eighth to his forty-eighth inning inclusive he was in clever form and averaged over ten for that spell. Billiards in big clusters characterized his game, lengthy runs being frequent with him. He went out, with an frequent with him. He went out with an inning of 39. Both men played better in the second half of the game than the first, Dr. Mial's close play netting better profits than Dr. Miller's open table tactics. The score:

J. A. Hen'rick got away better than W. H. Sigourney in the evening game, the Californian not showing any form until his fourth inning. In that inning by careful and deliberate position play around the upper transverse balk line he gathered in 25, missing a one-cushion shot of a simple nature through too precise calculation. The run put him in the lead. The score was even in the eighth inning with neither man playing well. They fared poorly in holding the balls, once having them in line for liberal counting. A run of 20 by Hendrick in the tenth inning was more rapid and nearer the finished style of the expert than anything previous. There was a seeming lack of confidence on both sides by Sigurney especially.

Part of the slow counting was due to the fact that the balls broke very badly, and carelessness accounted for more than one miss. Sigourney negotiated a hard kiss shot neatly, but a kiss after counting separated the balls provokingly—one instance of how the globes rolled. Sigourney completed a featureless first hundred is points in the lead. Hendrick stirred up things in the lead. Hendrick stirred up things in the lead. Hendrick stirred up things in the wenty-sixth inning with a daring kiss shot back from the cushion, the cue ball scooting back a yard to the red and at a slight angle.

Hendrick passed Sigourney in the thirtieth lining, and Sigourney went to the front again in his next turn at the table. This

Both Riders Suspended for Balance of the Meeting-Old Guard of New York Enjoys Good Sport at New Orleans -Four Favorites Finish in Front.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 11.-Jockeys Slack and Thompson caused a sensation at the race-track to-day. Slack rode Harry Robinson's Death, while-Thompson had the mount on Lady Alberta in the handicap. When the bunch wheeled into the stretch Lady Alberta carried Death a little wide, and Slack slashed at Thompson with his whip. The latter re-taliated. Both of them were still fighting when they passed under the wire. As a result neither horse finished in the money. Death was a heavily played favorite. Scar-let Lily, Maggie Davis and Andes divided the purse in the order named, and the winner was the best backed horse of the day. She opened at 7 to 1 and went to the post at 31/2 to 1. Slack and Thompson were suspended for the balance of the meeting.

FOR OUR PLAYERS.

Engagements Will Provide Practice for the International Cup at Hurlingham -First Contest on May 3-American Ponics Are Now at Rugby.

A definite itinerary of the tour of the American Polo Association team in England has been arranged by its captain, Foxhall Keene, who is now at his hunting box, Sysonby Lodge, in Melton Mowbray. In order to have the ponies and men in the best possible condition for the great competition of the tour, the challenge match for the interna-tional cup at Hurlingham, which begins on May Si, Mr. Keene has arranged a number of preliminary contests. The first will be at Ranelagh on May 3, the second at Hurlingham on May 8, and from May 12 to 17 the Americans will take part in a tournament at the new club at Rochampton. The team will be again at Hurlingham for matches on May 21 and 24, and for the final game before the international match the Americans will gallop at Ranelagh on May 26. The international contest is the best two in three matches, the first being scheduled for Saturday, May 31, and the second for Monday, June 2. If a third match is necessary it will be played on Tuesday, June 3, the day before the Derby, so that Americans who are in London at that time will have a lively week. A good many of our poloists are talking of going over to see the international match, but it is too early as yet to announce a list of those sure to go, for there are always numerous changes of plan when such a long trip must be taken. H. L. Herbert, chairman of the Polo Association, is sure to go, and as there will be any number of Americans over for the coronation. the challenging team will not lack for supporters.
All the American ponies are at Rugby the challenging team will not lack for supporters.

All the American ponies are at Rugby and as the three fields to be played on are practically in London they will not suffer from excessive travelling. The series of games will harden them and get the nags on edge, which is the benefit, too, the men will derive from the early contests, but in addition they will have the new ponies well in hand and renew their knowledge of the ponies they have played with before. The contests will also serve to post the Americans on the way the game is played in England, the great difference being the trick they have abroad of hooking mallets. This will not bother the Americans to any great extent, according to our best critics, for Keene has played at that game in England, while all the others on the team have been practising the knack on the quiet for some seasons. The fluringham rule about hooking reads: "No player shall crook his adversary's stick unless he is on the same side of the adversary's pony as the ball or in a direct line behind." The play is a pretty one to watch and most galling to the victim, who at the top of the swing finds his mallet checked in its career as suddenly as though it had caught in the limb of a tree. It is an adversary, of course, who has "crooked" it by reaching out with his own mallet, and by impeding the stroke he has let up another of the team to ride off with the ball, in England, too, a player who is off side shall not hit the ball is hit again. Riding out and interposing are allowed, as they are here, and there are the same rules against crossing. All the matches abroad will be scratch ones, for there are so many poloits there that it is unnecessary to attract recruits by enforcing the handicaps that have strengthened the game in this country. Safety knockouts are not allowed in the English game.

As now understood the remaining members of the team, John E. Cowdin, L. and J. M. Waterbury, Jr., and R. L. Agassiz, will take part in the anual spring tournament of the Lakewood Polo Club, April contests will be limited to ten and twenty-round bouts and liberal purses will be offered. Bettinson writes as follows of the proposed scheme:

"I have just seen clippings from several New York newspapers stating that Tommy West was commissioned by me to obtain boxers for the National Sporting Club. This is not so. As West was leaving for America I asked him, should he see Fitzsimmons or any of the big guns. I would be glad to have him write me whether they would visit England and participate in the fistic carnival which we intend to hold during the crowning of the King next June. I stated emphatically that any contracts made would have to be done directly through you. I cabled you last week, as the American press has put West in a very different light to what I asked of him. West appeared to be a decent chap and, being a puglist and friend of the scrappers, I said to him what I did. I want to hear from Joe Walcott, Tommy Ryan, Young Corbett, Joe Gans, Frank Erne, Tom Sharkey, Peter Maher, Harry Forbes and Dave Sullivan. I'd like to have Fitzsimmons and Jeffres, but I guess they won't come here for the amount I would offer. They can have matches if properly paired. We may run shows afternoon and evening. The programme, at any rate, will last a week."

The dector said to The Sun reporter that he will make overtures for Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey to fight in England. Gus Ruhlin may also be asked to go.
